

The Good Guys (Elan Records/Stereo Seven/EI Dance)

Profile

For those not in the know, The Good Guys is a Swiss-based house-project representing Elan and Gfab Records. The DJ-Duo had the opportunity to team up production wise with Ian Carey (Soul Providers) from Defected Records in 2004.

Their first production "Give Up The Funk" was released in January 2005 on Elan Records (USA/NL) and was supported by the likes of Axwell, Major Boys, Shapeshifters, Groove Junkies, Danny Marquez, The Beginerz and others. The record is still selling like crazy! It achieved different hype chartings in the UK (Blackmarket, City Sounds, DJ MAG etc.) and all over Europe. Italy's record label "Stereo Seven" and Spain's record label "EI Dance" licensed the track and released it again. Also, the track can be found on various Dance- and House-Compilations all over Europe. No wonder, this fall also the Shapeshifters (World Hit: Lola's Theme) took it on their compilation called "house grooves vol.2". it also got a lot of airplay at various radio stations such as kiss.fm (Ukraine) and radio 1 (Greece). After the big success of their first production, The Good Guys are releasing their next record "Lose Control" in the beginning of 2006, again working with Defected's Ian Carey.

Besides the studio work and the club tours, The Good Guys are currently working on their new concept and record label called "Funk Fabric" which includes radio shows on various radio stations (toxic.fm Switzerland, Sharmanka FM Ukraine, Vmix France etc.) with international Guest-DJ's, Events all over Europe and vinyl releases distributed all over the world. funkfabric.com also is a community-based homepage which brings house music lovers together to chat, talk and share their thoughts.
